Services

Nature of advice provided

We will provide you only with general advice only concerning your FX transaction. This will be limited to the mechanics of the FX transaction you are entering into and will not take into consideration your objectives, specific financial circumstances or needs. You will need to make your own assessment as to the nature and timing of any specific FX transaction you enter into.

We recommend that you take all reasonable steps to fully understand the outcomes and risks of specific foreign exchange trades and strategies adopted in relation to utilising the service provided by us and that you obtain independent advice in relation to your specific financial requirements, including any taxation implications.

Australian Financial Services Licence ("AFSL")

Under our AFSL, we are authorised to:

- provide general financial product advice for foreign exchange contracts;
- deal in a foreign exchange products by applying for, acquiring, varying or disposing of a financial product on behalf of another person; and
- make a market in foreign exchange contracts.

Types of Products

We are authorised to deal in, and advise in relation to, the following products:

- foreign exchange spot contracts;
- foreign exchange forward contracts.

Please refer to our Product Disclosure Statement ("PDS") for details of how these products operate.

Methods of providing financial services

If you wish to utilise our services you may issue us with instructions:

- in person via the telephone;
- online through our website; or
- by such other method as agreed by us from time to time (e.g. email, but not fax).

Documentation

Transaction documentation

We will ask you to enter into an client agreement before you commence trading with us that will apply to every transaction you subsequently enter into with us. We will provide you with all relevant execution and confirmation documentation in relation to each individual transaction.

General Advice Warning

We will provide you only with general advice that does not take into account your individual objectives, financial situation or needs ("General Advice"). Whenever we provide you with General Advice, you should also seek independent advice to ascertain whether our service is appropriate for your particular financial circumstances and requirements.

PDS

If we recommend that you acquire a financial product, or offer or arrange to issue you with a financial product, we will also provide you with a PDS containing information about the product to enable you to make an informed decision about whether to acquire the product.

Our record-keeping obligations

We maintain accurate records of all advice given and transactions entered into. Telephone calls may be recorded and, if so, are retained for a period of at least 12 months. If applicable, we will use recordings, and transcripts of recordings, should any misunderstanding or dispute arise between us.

Who do we act for?

We act on your behalf for the purpose of executing the transactions you have requested. From time to time, we may act as principal and enter into foreign exchange transactions on our own behalf.

Remuneration & commission

Transaction fees

We charge a transaction fee ("Fee") of up to AUD$25.00 (or foreign currency equivalent) for transactions under AUD$10,000 (or foreign currency equivalent) and no Fee for transactions over AUD$10,000 (or foreign currency equivalent). Additional transaction fees may apply if there is more than one beneficiary (e.g. if a total amount of more than AUD$10,000 was being sent to more than one beneficiary, separate Fees would be charged in relation to each beneficiary who received less than AUD$10,000).

In most cases, there are no correspondent bank or receiving bank charges.

In some cases, we may not be able to send a payment directly to the beneficiary bank and will use a correspondent bank to make the payment. The correspondent bank may charge a fee for making the payment to the beneficiary bank and those fees may be deducted from the amount remitted to the beneficiary bank. The beneficiary bank may also deduct or charge a fee upon receiving a payment sent by us, dependant on the beneficiary's account fee structure. These third party fees are beyond our control; we receive no benefit from them and we cannot necessarily predict when they will be charged or the amount of the fees.

You therefore need to bear in mind that the amount you are sending may not always be exactly the same as the amount received into the beneficiary account.

Our remuneration

In relation to all transactions, and in addition to any Fee that we might charge, we derive a profit ("Profit") on the transaction based on the difference between the rate quoted to you and the rate we can negotiate with our own liquidity providers. This Profit will vary according to the currencies involved and the arrangements that we enter into with our liquidity providers from time to time.

Example: Assume you wished to make a payment of USD $50,000 in the United States. Our system might quote a rate of 0.7200 (this will vary depending on the current exchange rates at the time of the deal). Based on this exchange rate, to buy USD $50,000 in the United States, you would be required to pay us AUD $69,444.44 The Profit that we make from this transaction is derived from the difference between the rate we quote to you and the wholesale rate we obtain from our bank (the wholesale rate is also referred to as the 'interbank rate').

Employee remuneration

Our employees are compensated on a salary basis, they can also be compensated with additional performance related incentives where justified. We may appoint representatives that are compensated on a percentage basis of the profit made by us.

Our associations and relationships with others

We do not have any relationships or associations with financial product issuers which might influence us in providing you with our financial services. We may, from time to time, have relationships with other financial services providers, such as introducing brokers and referrers. These companies or individuals are not employed by Forex Sport, nor are they agents of Forex Sport. They may be entitled to remuneration as a result of performing certain services (such as referring clients to Forex Sport). This remuneration may be a one off referral fee or may be a commission based on a percentage of the profit made by us from the clients they introduce. This is typically between 10% and 20% of the profit in relation each transaction entered into.

Disclosure of any relevant conflicts of interest

We do not have any relationships or associations which might influence us in providing you with our services.

Dispute Resolution

We have an internal dispute resolution process in place to resolve any complaints you may have, quickly and fairly. This can be found on our website at Dispute Resolution. All complaints should be directed to our Compliance Manager who will seek to resolve your complaint within seven (7) days.

If you are dissatisfied with the outcome of our internal procedure, you have the right to complain to the Financial Ombudsman Service and may be contacted on 1300 780 808. This is an approved external dispute resolution scheme. You may also make a complaint to ASIC via the ASIC free call Info line on 1300 300 630.

Compensation Arrangements

We have in place a professional indemnity insurance policy that satisfies the requirements for compensation arrangements under section 912B of the Corporations Act 2001 (Cth) and will cover claims in relation to the conduct of representatives, in addition to employees who have ceased to work for us since the time of the relevant conduct.

Privacy

The privacy of your information is very important to us. We have practices which include the secure storage of personal information and safeguards against the accidental release of personal information. Please visit our website if you would like a copy of our privacy policy Privacy Policy, or contact us at info@forexsport.com if you have any concerns.
